STATISTICAL REGISTER

OF QUEENSLAND

FOR THE YEAR

1862;

Compiled in the Office of the Registrar-General.

PRESENTED TO BOTH HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT BY COMMAND OF HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR.

REGISTRAR-GENERAL'S REPORT

ON THE

STATISTICAL REGISTER FOR 1862.

Registrar-General's Office, Brisbane,
1st April, 1863.

TO THE HONORABLE ROBERT GEORGE WYNDHAM HERBERT, ESQ., COLONIAL SECRETARY, ETC., ETC.

SIR,

I have the honor to forward to you, for the information of His Excellency the Governor, "THE STATISTICAL REGISTER OR BLUE BOOK OF "THE COLONY OF QUEENSLAND, FOR THE YEAR ENDING THE 31ST DECEMBER, "1862," to which I have added, as on former occasions, a short Report, containing some comparative tables illustrative of the rapid progress made by the Colony since its formation, and drawing attention to a few of the conclusions to which a consideration of these returns naturally leads.

PARLIAMENTARY.

The year 1862 was distinguished by two Sessions of Parliament, being respectively the Third and Fourth of the First Parliament of Queensland. On the first meeting, Parliament sat only for a few days to pass an Act to prevent the introduction of diseased cattle into the Colony, and was then prorogued by proclamation. The Second Session was opened by His Excellency the Governor, in person, on the 29th of April, and was prorogued by him on the 9th July. As regards the business of this Session, a reference to the tables in the Register, Nos. VII. and VIII., shows that the number of Bills passed was small in comparison with the number introduced. Amongst the most important Acts of the Session were the Common Law Procedure Act, the Marine Board Act, and the Additional Judge Act.

The Legislative Assembly sat on thirty-six days, for an average each day of nearly three hours forty-seven minutes; the number of daily sittings being less, and the average length of each being shorter than in the First or Second Sessions of this Parliament.

Having found much difficulty on various occasions in ascertaining the total amounts voted for the service of any particular year, or for any particular Department, I have prepared the two following tables, marked A and B, affording that information, the former showing the amounts voted for the service of each year, and the latter showing the sums voted for each of the more important heads of expenditure.

B.

TABLE showing the AMOUNTS voted for the Services of the Principal Heads of Expenditure in each of the Years 1862 and 1863.

Heads of Expenditure.	Year. 1862.	Year. 1863.	Remarks.
	£ s. d.	£
Administration of Justice, Gaol, and Sheriff ...	11,885 15 11	11,332	Many of the items of expenditure in the year 1863, which seem smaller than the corresponding items of 1862, will probably be largely supplemented by Votes of the Parliament during the Session of the present year, 1863.
Crown Lands, Occupation and Sale of	35,147 0 0	40,264
Customs and Bonded Stores	7,389 0 0	8,890
Education	11,000 0 0	11,000
Harbors, Lights, Pilotage, and Marine Board ...	8,625 0 0	7,816
Immigration	2,865 0 0	5,550
Police, Native Ditto...	44,368 0 0	44,896
Post Office and Conveyance of Mails	21,323 0 0	24,438
Public Works	27,094 0 0	28,070
Roads and Bridges	49,841 0 0	41,670

In addition to the above sums in table B, the raising of a sum of money by way of loan not to exceed £123,800 1s., to be expended on immigration and on certain permanent works, was authorised by Act of Parliament (25th Victoria, No. 3). £129,432 12s. 5d. have been thus raised, at a premium varying from four to five per cent., by the sale of Debentures, bearing six per cent. interest. The Departments whose expenditure has been supplemented from this source are the following :—

	1860 and 1861.	1862.
Public Works	57,853 7 2
Bridges	356 14 0
Immigration...	5,000 0 0
	63,210 1 2

On referring to table B above, the large sum voted for Police will, doubtless, attract notice, and certainly when compared with the population of last year, calculated to the 1st July, it seems at first sight exorbitant, amounting to £1 2s. 7½d. per head; in other words, the people of Queensland pay considerably more per head for Police alone, than the people of Great Britain and Ireland pay per head towards the support of the British Army and Navy, as well as of the Police of the United Kingdom. It is to be remembered, however, that the extension of the machinery of protection over our vast and sparsely inhabited territory, entails a very large expenditure. In 1862, a sum of no less than £17,828 was voted for the Native Police alone; although the muster-roll of that force, according to a report from the Commandant for the month of January, 1863, shows only the following effectives, viz.:—1 commandant, 4 lieutenants, 8 second lieutenants, 7 cadets, 1 sergeant-major, 13 camp sergeants, and 114 black troopers. It thus appears that the number of commissioned officers paid to command little more than one hundred effective black troopers, amounts to one-half of the full complement allotted by the War Office to an English regiment 1,000 strong. Again, a full garrison battery of the Royal Artillery, consisting of 1 captain commanding, 5 officers, 21 non-commissioned officers, and 98 gunners—in all, 125—costs only £7,544 per annum, including pay, allowances, provisions, forage, &c. It follows, that the Native Police Corps of Queensland, with its effective force of little more than one hundred blacks, costs more than twice as much as a battery of the Royal Artillery, composed of about an equal number of the most highly paid, the most highly disciplined, and the most efficient soldiers in the whole British Army.

ELECTORAL.

The number of Electors given in table No. II. of the Register, is the number as they stood at the revision of the Rolls in March, 1862; the results of the revisions in the present year, have not yet reached me.

MUNICIPALITIES.

The following is a return of the Municipalities in Queensland, on the 31st December, 1862, showing the date of their establishment, and comparing their receipts and expenditure for the years 1861 and 1862.

C.

Name of Municipality.	When Established.	1861.		1862.
		Receipts.	Expenditure.	Receipts.	Expenditure.
		£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
Brisbane	13 October, 1859... ...	4,477 19 2	14,788 0 3	9,542 0 5	12,633 12 11
Ipswich	February, 1860 ...	4,890 2 5	6,095 8 11	3,291 18 4	5,953 19 7
Toowoomba	1 December, 1860 ...	1,205 16 6	1,197 16 5	5,147 2 3	4,320 2 2
Rockhampton ...	25 February, 1861 ...	181 12 0	869 10 0	3,539 6 6	8,874 3 7
Maryborough ...	26 April, 1861	No returns.	No returns.	1,343 13 3	1,258 13 8
Warwick	25 May, 1861	455 5 0	100 0 0	1,719 8 5	2,394 5 10
Drayton	23 September, 1862 ...	...	...	166 2 9	115 5 5
	Total	11,210 15 1	23,050 15 7	24,749 11 11	35,550 3 2

It will be observed from the foregoing table, that the number of Municipalities is larger than it was in 1861, and that both their receipts and expenditures have greatly increased. The difference between the receipts and expenditure of 1862 is not so great as it was in 1861; it is not quite clear however, how large a portion of the sums entered under the head of Receipts in the year 1862, has been raised by loans; money raised in this manner can hardly be considered in the light of revenue, although it is so entered in some of the municipal returns.

CLIMATE.

The Meteorological Tables, numbered from LXXIX. to LXXXVII., inclusive, have been prepared by the Meteorological Observer with his usual care. They show the Climate of the past year to have been one of extremes; the thermometer in the shade both rose higher and fell lower than in 1861; the temperature in the one year ranging from 99·7° to 37·0°, in the other, from 100·2° to 31·0°. The quantity of rain that fell in 1861 was 69·49 inches, in 1862 it was only 28·27; the latter has therefore been a year of drought, and has been followed by the heaviest and most disastrous floods known since the year 1841; the fall of rain, however, which occasioned them, belongs to the Meteorological Tables of 1863. The very small rain-fall which occurred in 1862 was accompanied by a more than usually large amount of evaporation, namely 72·265 inches; the evaporation in 1861 was 61·793 inches. The greatest daily range in the temperature of the air occurred on the 1st November, the highest and lowest readings of the thermometer on that day, differing by 39·9°; in 1861 the greatest daily range was 37·6°. It may perhaps be worth observing, that the peculiar state of the atmosphere during the past year has been accompanied by an unusually large mortality, particularly among children.

POPULATION.

The white population of the Colony on the 31st December, 1862, is estimated to have numbered 45,077 souls, no account being taken in this estimate of the arrivals and departures by land. Persons who reside in the border districts, and are therefore best able to express an opinion, state positively that our population annually receives overland a considerable accession to its number; as the means of testing the accuracy of this assertion are wanting, the estimate of the population has necessarily been made without reference to it; nor is it possible to make even the most vague estimate of the present number of the aboriginal population. The estimated number of the white population on the 31st December, 1861, was 34,367; the increase has therefore been in the high ratio of 31·16 per cent., and is to be traced to the following sources:—

Direct European Immigration	8,080
From neighboring Colonies	1,725
From natural increase	905
Total increase	10,710

The first two items will be more fully alluded to under the head of Immigration. Under the head of natural increase several points offer themselves as worthy of consideration. First, it may be deduced from the following quarterly table of excess of births over deaths, marked D, that the centesimal increase from this cause is not so great as in former years. It is only at the rate of 2·27 per cent. of the estimated average population of 1862, whereas in the year 1861 it was at the rate of 2·92 per cent. It will also be observed by reference to tables E and G, that whilst the births of 1862 exceed those of 1861 in the ratio of only 19·61 per cent., the deaths of 1862 exceed those of 1861 in the ratio of 59·40 per cent. The increased mortality of the year has principally taken place in the maritime towns of Rockhampton, Maryborough, and Brisbane, young children (vide table H) having been in each case by far the most numerous victims. Many causes suggest themselves as probably assisting the exceptional season in this much to be lamented mortality; but this is not the place, nor is it my province to enlarge on them; my duty is simply to point out the fact, and I leave it to others more conversant with the subject to say how far it is remediable. In a climate always, and with truth, considered favorable to human life, it certainly is lamentable to see 27·85 per cent., or more than one-fourth of all the children born in the larger towns die before completing their first year, and nearly one-half die before reaching five years of age.

Another very remarkable fact is the large number of males who have died compared with females, viz., 516 to 281 or 183·66 males to each hundred females. Making every allowance for the larger number of the male population, there still remains the singular fact that males have died faster than females in the ratio of 130·14 of the former to one hundred of the latter.

IMMIGRATION.

European Immigration has, during the past year, assumed large dimensions. The introduction from the antipodes of upwards of eight thousand immigrants at an expense of £150,000 by this young Colony, whose whole population, male and female, young and old, was at the commencement of the year under thirty-five thousand, is a remarkable fact, and places in a striking light its territorial and financial resources. Leaving entirely on one side the numerous collateral benefits arising from an increase of population, and considering it only so far as it affects the item of revenue derived from import duties, the results are such as those who have not taken the trouble to calculate will hardly deem credible. For instance, if £100,000 of Debentures, redeemable in twenty years and bearing 6 per cent. interest, were sold at current rates, namely, 4½ per cent. premium, and the money expended on the introduction of immigrants at £18 per head, at the end of twenty years, by natural increase, the 5,805 immigrants so introduced would have swelled in number to upwards of 10,000. The increase in the customs revenue occasioned by this growing population, if calculated at current rates per head, would annually pay the interest on the original loan, and if the annual surplus were invested even at 6 per cent. interest, would form a reserve fund sufficient to pay off the Debentures on the day they became due, and a large sum, more than £120,000, would still remain to be handed over to the Consolidated Revenue,—an amount far more than necessary to cover all the additional cost of collection by the Customs Department.

The actual number of European immigrants who arrived during the year 1862 was 8,080, of whom 6,172 were introduced under the Land Order system, and 1,908 arrived in vessels chartered by the Government. Of the total arrivals, 4,703 were males, 3,377 were females, these numbers being in the ratio of 71·81 females to every 100 males. As the relative numbers of the sexes of immigrants exhibit a less disparity than existed in the Colony on the 31st December, 1861, the per centage of females on the whole population of 1862 would be thereby increased were it not that the intercolonial immigration has so strong a counteracting tendency as almost entirely to neutralize the progress towards equalization traceable to the former cause. The estimated number of females to every hundred males of the entire population on the 31st December, 1862, is 65·81; on the 31st December of each of the years 1859, 1860, and 1861, the ratios are respectively 66, 66, and 65 per cent. Much information on this important subject may be collected from the tables in the Register, Nos. XXVIII. to XXXIII. inclusive.

The system of paying immigrants' passages from Europe by land orders, has been most successful in drawing attention to this Colony; and as the balance of the intercolonial immigration continues still in favor of Queensland, although not nearly so largely as in 1861, it cannot be said that too many European immigrants have reached our shores. Experience, however, will probably show that, like most other schemes, the present one is susceptible of some amendment. It may, hereafter, be found advisable that the Government should possess the power of checking the influx of undue numbers, and particularly of discountenancing their arrival in the middle of summer. The increased mortality during the hot months last year in all the seaport towns—greatly in excess of 2·01 per cent., which is the average mortality of the whole Colony, appears by the records in this office, to have fallen chiefly on the recently arrived immigrants, and seems, I think, to show that exposure to the summer heat has an injurious effect on their health, and that the winter or autumn seasons should therefore be selected for their arrival. The following table showing the deaths in each month of the year, in each of the three towns and districts of Brisbane, Maryborough, and Rockhampton, apparently strengthens the above opinion, particularly if this return be compared with the monthly arrival of immigrants. For instance, the deaths in the three specified seaport towns in the two cool months of August and September amounted to 53, the arrivals of immigrants during those months having been 2,507; in the two hot months of November and December the arrivals were 2,745, only 238 more than in August and September, but the deaths numbered 146.

As regards the intercolonial arrivals and departures, it appears that the number of arrivals is greater than that of departures, and that the Colony has gained during the year to the extent of 1,725 souls. This is a far smaller number than in 1861, in which year it amounted to 4,369; the difference is easily explained by the larger European immigration.

EDUCATION.

I am happy to have it in my power to report a large increase in the number of schools in the Colony, and of the children who have attended them, during the past year. First on the list appear the schools under the supervision of the Board of General Education, 13 in number, with a daily average attendance of 1,214 scholars; next come the Church of England schools, 5 in number, with 469 pupils. The private schools are 36 in number, with 1,377 pupils; and lastly the Sunday schools, 30 in number, with 1,865 scholars. There is, therefore, a total of 4,925 children who attend schools of one description or other. A comparison of these numbers with the meagre returns of 1860 must be very gratifying to the friends of education. On the other hand, it is somewhat unsatisfactory to see how large a proportion of the persons taken into custody has been educated, at least to a certain extent; for of these persons one-half could both read and write, and more than one-half could read.

CRIME.

The tables under this head, Nos. XL. to XLIII. inclusive, continue to show a marked exemption from crime of the more serious descriptions. The number of persons tried by jury is certainly larger than in the year 1861, but has not increased quite in the same ratio as the population. In that year the per centage of the population tried by jury, was 1·03, last year the per centage was 1·02. It will be observed by comparing the tables above referred to, that there is a wide difference between the number committed for trial by the Courts of Petty Sessions and the number who are actually put upon their trial; 84 persons appear to have been committed for trial, but only 55 to have been tried, and out of these 55, the number acquitted is 32.

The following TABLE shows the PROGRESSIVE DIMINUTION OF CRIME of a serious nature, during the last Four years.

YEAR.	ACQUITTED.	GUILTY.	TOTAL TRIED.	PER CENTAGE OF POPULATION TRIED.	PER CENTAGE OF POPULATION GUILTY.

1862	32	23	55	·12	·05

Of the above convictions in 1862, two were for murder, eleven were for offences against the person, and twelve for offences against property. The following table, showing the number of persons taken into custody and dealt with summarily by the Courts of Petty Sessions, is satisfactory, as regards minor offences against both person and property, but as regards drunkenness and vagrancy, it is far the reverse.

TABLE comparing the number of PERSONS TAKEN INTO CUSTODY and SUMMARILY CONVICTED or DISCHARGED by the several Courts of Petty Sessions in the two Years 1861 and 1862.

YEAR.	TAKEN INTO CUSTODY.				CONVICTED.				Committed for Trial.	Discharged.

1861	497	361	1,187	2,045	356	201	1,043	1,600	99	346
1862	487	482	2,180	3,149	326	243	1,837	2,406	84	659
Increase	...	121	993	1,104	...	42	794	806	...	313
Decrease	10	...	...	...	30	...	...	...	15	...

Public attention cannot be too strongly drawn to the terribly rapid increase of drunkenness and vagrancy. It is true that the population has multiplied at the rate of 31·16 per cent., but even that large increase is small when compared with the increase of the above offences. An increase of 83·66 per cent. in the number taken into custody, and of 76·12 per cent. in the number punished for drunkenness and vagrancy in one year, is not a pleasant contemplation for those who have the prosperity of the Colony at heart. It is impossible to avoid connecting the extraordinary number of sudden and accidental deaths of persons in the prime of life,—21·51 per cent., or nearly one fourth of the whole deaths of the year, and the far too numerous deaths of children, 45·53 per cent., or nearly one half of the total deaths of the year,—with the prevalence of this degrading vice; and if in the majority of cases it cannot be actually shown to be the immediate cause of death, I fear that but little inquiry is needed in most instances to ascertain that it is so indirectly. As regards crime also, although the Colony can still boast of a remarkable immunity from the more serious descriptions, I apprehend that such cannot possibly continue to be the case in the face of a yearly increasing amount of drunkenness and vagrancy. It may also, whilst on this subject, be as well to remark that the number of public houses in the Colony has increased in one year from 139 to 193, and it is remarkable that for this increase of 54, Rockhampton is accountable for 36, the respective numbers in that district having been in 1861, 18, in 1862, 54.

COLONIAL BANKING ESTABLISHMENTS.

The following table marked L, is compiled for the purpose of providing easy means of comparing the position of the Queensland branches of the several Banks carrying on business in this Colony during each quarter of the years 1860, 1861, and 1862. Although these returns are compiled from the returns of the several branches published in the Government Gazette, and sworn to as correct by the several managers, still, being only the returns of one branch of each bank, they afford no real insight into the true position of the several banks of which they are only offshoots. Notwithstanding this deficiency, they are interesting documents, and show that a large increase has taken place in every item, both of liabilities and assets. For instance, taking the last quarter of each of the years 1861 and 1862, it appears that—

Notes in circulation have increased at the rate of	...	...	...	38·03 per cent.

The business of the Moreton Bay Savings' Bank has, during the past year, increased so much that I have considered it desirable to give a full abstract of its balance sheet on the 31st December, 1862, which will be found in the Register, table No. XLVIII. The number of depositors has increased during the year from 242 to 489, and the amount deposited from £12,192 15s. 5d. to £20,562 12s. 3d.

INDUSTRIAL.

There is but little to be said on this subject. A slight increase has taken place in the number of sawmills, but no manufactures properly so called have been, or are at all likely to be commenced. Coal mining is gradually increasing, and will no doubt, before long, become a very important occupation. The quantity raised last year was 24,067 tons, valued at £19,253 12s., which is nearly double the quantity and value raised in 1861. Gold digging has not made much progress; the difficulties in the way of the diggers, arising from want of water and the scarceness and consequent high price of provisions have compelled most of them to turn their attention for the present to other employments. An exceedingly rich lode of copper ore has been found in the Kennedy district, and active steps are being taken to work it.

AGRICULTURE.

The following table shows the present state of Agriculture, and compares it with the returns of the year 1861. Although the total quantity of land under cultivation is very small, it is still most satisfactory to observe an increase in the year in the ratio of 35·85 per cent. Wheat, grown principally in the district of Warwick, is nearly double the quantity grown in 1861, and the cultivation of maize has also much increased. The apparent decrease in the quantity of land under cotton is incorrect, and arises from an erroneous return forwarded to this office for the Register of 1861. There is in reality an increase, although not a large one, in the quantity of land, and a considerable increase in the quantity of cotton produced, this latter being by far the more reliable evidence. (Vide Table of Imports and Exports.) In 1861 there were three companies for the growth of cotton in Queensland, viz., the Cabulture, the Ipswich, and the Maryborough companies. During 1862 two additional cotton companies began operations, viz., the Manchester company, and the Victoria company; the plantation of the former being situated on the Nyrang Creek, and that of the latter on the Hotham Creek, two small navigable rivers flowing into Moreton Bay. In addition to the five cotton companies now at work in Queensland, many individuals are forming cotton plantations, some of them on a considerable scale.

The first appearance of twenty acres of sugar cane is also worthy of notice as the germ of an industry which will very probably become hereafter of great importance to the Colony.

LANDS.

The tables in the Register, relating to the alienation of Crown Lands during the past year, and numbered from LXIII. to LXVII. inclusive, are very elaborate and complete. Several causes have operated to make the quantity of land purchased from the Crown unusually large. Of these the principal one has undoubtedly been the Land Order system, and the facilities which it has afforded of obtaining land at less than the minimum price, by purchasing the £18 land order at a discount, and tendering it in payment to the Government at its full value.

The total quantity of land sold during the past year was 67,873 acres 1 rood 9 perches, which realized £106,019 13s. 5d.; the quantity sold in the year 1861 was 56,849 acres 1 rood 14¼ perches; the increase in the quantity sold has, therefore, been at the rate of 19·39 per cent. The total quantity of land alienated in fee by the Crown from the foundation of the Colony up to the 31st December, 1862, is 149,254 acres 2 roods 31¼ perches.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

The returns furnished by the Collector of Customs show a very encouraging state of trade; and which, if commerce be any index to the prosperity and resources of a country, must tend to raise Queensland to a far higher place in the list of British colonies than her youth and scanty population would otherwise justify. It cannot be too clearly understood that the returns referred to, and numbered in the tables LXXV. and LXXVI., are for the third year of the Colony's separate existence. The trade of the Colony for each of the last three years has been as follows :—

Year.	Imports. Value in £'s sterling.	Exports. Value in £'s sterling.	Total Exports and Imports. Value in £'s sterling.	Increase per cent. on former year's Imports in £'s sterling. It appears from the former of the above tables, that the trade of the Colony for the year 1862, was—imports, £1,320,225; exports, £748,519; and imports and exports together, £2,068,744. Estimating the mean population of the year at 39,722 souls, the imports were at the extraordinary rate of £33 6s. 4¾d. per head, and the exports at the rate of £18 16s. 4d. per head. It will also be observed that the value of the imports of 1862 exceeds that of the imports of 1861 by £352,275, or at the rate of 36·73 per cent., and that the value of the exports of 1862 exceeds the value of those of 1861 by £38,921, or at the rate of 5·19 per cent. This comparatively small increase in the exports is no doubt mainly attributable to the difficulties that have been experienced during the past year by those engaged in pastoral pursuits owing to the recent floods in conveying their raw produce to the various shipping ports, and to a very material alteration in the estimated value affixed to the wool exported. In 1861 it was estimated at 21d. per lb., in 1862 at only 18½d. per lb. The actual quantity of wool shipped in 1862 is 15·29 per cent. greater than the quantity shipped in 1861. It must, however, be observed that the large and rapid increase in the quantity of wool shipped is chiefly ascribable to importations of sheep and not to natural increase, and that we cannot therefore expect this increase to continue long at its present rate. Every well-wisher to the Colony must earnestly hope to see other raw productions gradually assume a more important place in our exports; and I therefore draw particular attention to the first appearance of cotton as an export. The quantity is but small, only 14,344 lbs., and valued only at £1,423; and is, therefore, only worthy of notice as being the starting point of an exportation which it is highly probable will in a few years become of imperial importance. Copper ore also begins to appear among the exports, 268 tons, valued at £10,332, being the quantity shipped last year. If it were possible in the Customs' Returns to distinguish between washed and unwashed wool, the distinction would, I think, afford valuable information.

SHIPPING.

TABLES LXVIII. TO LXXIII. INCLUSIVE.

The trade of the Colony, as given in the above tables, is developing itself with extraordinary rapidity; not only has it greatly increased in its previously existing channels, but traffic has been commenced in a number of new directions. The Register of 1861 pointed out an increase on the year 1860 of vessels entered inwards in the ratio of 21·25 per cent.; the increase of the year 1862 on the number of the year 1861 is still greater, being in the ratio of 29·48 per cent. It also appears that there is a large increase in the size of the vessels; the tonnage of 1861 exceeded that of 1860 in the ratio of 26·16 per cent., and the tonnage of 1862 exceeds that of 1861 in the ratio of 34·13 per cent.; in other words, the average tonnage of vessels in 1861 was 228·59 tons, whilst the average of 1862 was 234·28 tons. The following tables are prepared to facilitate a comparison between the trade of 1861 and that of 1862.

The most noteworthy point in the Shipping Tables is the increase in the number of vessels which have arrived direct from Great Britain. In 1861 the number was only eight; in 1862 it has increased to twenty-three. Nor has this been accompanied by a diminution of shipping from New South Wales; in 1861 the vessels from that Colony numbered two hundred and twenty-three, of 47,782 tons; in 1862 this number increased to two hundred and sixty-six, of 48,566 tons burden. The following table provides means of making further comparisons.

PASTORAL.

Much difficulty has been experienced in collecting the Live Stock Returns from the more distant Commissioners' districts, the great distances in the interior to which settlers have, during the past year, pushed their stations, and, as a consequence, the difficulty of communicating with them will account for the imperfect state of many of the Commissioners' returns. In examining the following table, marked P, this must be borne in mind. The actual result of this table is to show that, as compared with the year 1861, horses have increased at the rate of 22·92 per cent., cattle at the rate of 8·92 per cent., and sheep at the rate of 6·17 per cent.

The returns of liens on wool and of mortgages on live stock, which will be found in the Register, numbered respectively LI. and LII., are documents of much importance to the pastoral interests. They show that during the year 1862, 91 liens on the ensuing clip—that is, the clip of 1862–3—of 909,933 sheep, to secure the repayment of £165,487 11s. 8d., were registered. The mortgages on live stock effected last year numbered 152 against 25 discharged; the balance of the year's transactions is as follows:—Additional mortgages, 123; number of sheep mortgaged, 918,917; of horned cattle, 143,260; of horses, 2,341; and the amount secured, £577,020 19s. 2d. If this sum be added to the mortgages in existence on the 31st December, 1861, it makes a total of £1,759,539 11s. 10d.

The live stock pledged to secure this large sum are—sheep, 2,700,434; cattle, 311,962; horses, 28,338. It must, however, be remembered that in almost all cases the stations on which the above mortgaged stock are depasturing form part of the security; and that, leaving that security out of the question, the extremely moderate value of 8s. per sheep, 30s. per head of cattle, and 120s. per head of horses will about equal the money lent.

[1] The Gayndah Returns are very incomplete, Returns from more than twenty stations being wanting.
[2] In the West Maranoa, Returns from thirteen stations are wanting.
[3] The Returns from only eight stations in the Kennedy District have been received, the numbers for the year 1861 are therefore repeated.
[4] No Returns have been received from the Mitchell District.

FINANCIAL.

The Auditor-General's Financial Statement, vide Table No. XCIII., requires, I think, some little explanation, for else it might lead readers at a distance, and unacquainted with the circumstances, to under estimate both the Revenue and the Expenditure of Queensland for the past year.

A large quantity of Crown land was sold during the year 1862, and realized the sum of £110,526 12s. 4d.; of this a large portion was paid for by land orders, and not by cash. The sum thus paid by land orders, amounting to £51,144 17s. 4d., or nearly one-half of the total sum realized by the sale of land, is not included either in the year's receipts or expenditure, the reason being, I believe, that it was paid for by land orders and not by cash. In this statistical document, however, professing to show the entire transactions of the past year, and to give a correct account of the resources of the Colony, I feel bound to notice both the receipt and expenditure of this large sum of money; for, as the Government of Queensland issued these land orders by authority of the Act of the Queensland Parliament, 24 Victoria, No. 15, and as they are declared by that Act to be as good as cash, for the purpose of paying for land purchased from the Crown, I am unable to see why the money which they represent should not appear as part of the year's revenue, and the balance be adjusted by charging the Immigration Department with a like sum, as money expended on the introduction of immigrants; without this arrangement no equivalent is shown for the alienation of many thousand acres of the territory of the Crown. It should also, I think, be borne in mind that although the Treasury considers that it has only received the representative of money, but not the money itself, the Colony has actually received the benefit arising from that money's expenditure, in a large and valuable addition to its population. Viewing the subject in this light, I think I am fully justified in the following table, comparing the revenue and expenditure of the two years, 1861 and 1862, in treating the sum above alluded to on the one hand as revenue, and on the other as money expended on the introduction of immigrants. This alteration being made, the revenue of last year was £346,431 5s. 5d., and its expenditure £368,171 17s. 7d. The revenue of 1862 is at the rate of £8 14s. 5¼d. per head of the average population of the year.

CONCLUSION.

The large area over which the European population of Queensland has so quickly spread itself, extending from the 29th to about the 18th parallel of south latitude, and from the 153rd to about the 144th meridian of east longitude, has necessarily increased the difficulty of collecting the required returns from the more distant localities at a sufficiently early period of the year to permit their complete publication in this Register; and it will be observed that the stock returns from one district are wanting. In every other respect this Register will bear favorable comparison with those of former years; the returns are generally more complete, and have, I believe, been compiled with fewer errors.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

F. O. DARVALL,

Registrar-General.
